EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the instrument and does not purport to be a legal interpretation)

These Regulations give statutory effect in Ireland to Regulation (EC) No. 850/2004 of 29 April 2004 as amended on persistent organic pollutants. The EC Regulation is intended to ensure coherent and effective implementation of the European Community's obligations under the 2001 Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants and the 1998 Protocol on Persistent Organic Pollutants to the 1979 UNECE Convention on Long-Range Transboundary Air Pollution.

Regulation (EC) 850/2004 prohibits the production, placing on the market and use of certain substances which are persistent organic pollutants, whether on their own, in preparations or as constituents of articles, and restricts the production, placing on the market and use of other substances. Further persistent organic pollutants may be added from time to time.

These Regulations also designate the Environmental Protection Agency as the competent authority for the purposes of Regulation (EC) No. 850/2004. The Agency must fulfil obligations with regard, inter alia, to the drawing up and maintenance of release inventories and, in consultation with public authorities concerned and the public, the drawing up of national action and implementation plans to ensure the fulfilment of obligations under Regulation (EC) 850/2004, the Stockholm Convention and the 1998 Protocol.

The roles and responsibilities of public authorities which may be concerned are outlined including a general obligation to cooperate with each other and the Agency. The Agency is also responsible for reporting on certain aspects of implementation of Regulation (EC) No. 850/2004 both nationally and to the EU, while the Minister for the Environment, Heritage and Local Government has responsibility for the remaining reporting requirements. The Agency is also given power to charge fees in relation to specified applications.

These Regulations create offences for non-compliance with specified requirements of Regulation (EC) 850/2004 and these Regulations. Penalties for offences which are intended to be effective, proportionate and dissuasive, initiation of legal proceedings and recovery of costs of prosecutions are also provided for.
