SCOPE

DIVISION I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

2011, c. 12, s. 2.

2. The object of this Act is the elimination, at the source, of dangers to the health, safety and physical and mental well-being of workers.

This Act provides mechanisms for the participation of workers, workers' associations, employers and employers' associations in the realization of its object.

1979, c. 63, s. 2; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

3. The fact that collective or individual protective means and equipment are put at the disposal of workers where necessary to meet their special needs must in no way reduce the effort expended to eliminate, at the source, dangers to the health, safety and physical or mental well-being of workers.

1979, c. 63, s. 3; 2021, c. 27, ss. 123 and 233.

4. This Act is of public order and any derogating provision of any agreement or decree is absolutely null.

However, an agreement or decree may provide, in respect of a worker, a person performing functions under this Act or a certified association, more favourable provisions for the health, safety and physical or mental well-being of the worker.

1979, c. 63, s. 4; 1999, c. 40, s. 261; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

5. Nothing in this Act or in the regulations may be construed as limiting the rights of a worker or certified association under a collective agreement, Act, regulation, decree, order in council or other order.

1979, c. 63, s. 5.

5.1. Subject to any incompatible provision, in particular with respect to the workplace, the provisions of this Act apply to a worker carrying on telework and to his employer.

7. Every self-employed natural person who, for another person, and without the assistance of workers, carries out work in a workplace where there are workers is subject to the obligations imposed on a worker pursuant to this Act and the regulations.

The person described in the first paragraph must, furthermore, comply with the obligations imposed on an employer in respect of products, processes, equipment, materials, contaminants and dangerous substances.

1979, c. 63, s. 7.

8. The first paragraph of section 7 also applies to an employer or persons contemplated in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the definition of the word “worker”, in section 1, who carries out work at a workplace.

An agreement under the first paragraph shall ensure that the Kahnawake plan will have similar standards to those of the plan established in this matter by this Act.

2011, c. 12, s. 3; 2014, c. 18, s. 7.

8.4. The Government may, by regulation, take any necessary measures to carry out this division, such as providing for any modifications to be applied to an existing Act or statutory instrument to take the existence of an agreement into account.

Any regulation made under the first paragraph requires the prior concurrence of the Mohawks of Kahnawake represented by the Mohawk Council of Kahnawake.

2011, c. 12, s. 3; 2014, c. 18, s. 7.

8.5. An agreement under section 8.2 is tabled by the Minister in the National Assembly within 30 days of its signature or, if the Assembly is not sitting, within 30 days of resumption.

CHAPTER III

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS

DIVISION I

THE WORKER

§ 1. — General rights

9. Every worker has a right to working conditions that have proper regard for his health, safety and physical and mental well-being.

1979, c. 63, s. 9; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

10. In accordance with this Act and the regulations, the worker is entitled, in particular,

(1) to training, information and counselling services in matters of occupational health and safety, especially in relation to his work and his work environment, and to receive appropriate instruction, training and supervision;

(2) to receive the preventive and curative health services relating to the risks to which he may be exposed, and his wages for the time spent in undergoing a medical examination during employment prescribed for the application of this Act and the regulations.

1979, c. 63, s. 10.

11. Every person contemplated in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the definition of the word “worker”, in section 1, has the rights granted to workers under sections 9, 10, and 32 to 48.

1979, c. 63, s. 11.

§ 2. — Right of refusal

12. A worker has a right to refuse to perform particular work if he has reasonable grounds to believe that the performance of that work would expose him to danger to his health, safety or physical or mental well-being, or would expose another person to a similar danger.

1979, c. 63, s. 12; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

13. No worker may, however, exercise his right under section 12 if his refusal to perform the work puts the life, health, safety or physical or mental well-being of another person in immediate danger or if the conditions under which the work is to be performed are ordinary conditions in his kind of work.

1979, c. 63, s. 13; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

14. Until an executory decision is rendered ordering a worker to resume work, the employer shall not, subject to section 17 and the second paragraph of section 19, have the work performed by another worker or by a person who ordinarily works outside the establishment and a worker who is exercising his right of refusal is deemed to be at work.

1979, c. 63, s. 14.

15. Where a worker refuses to perform particular work, he must immediately inform his supervisor, his employer or an agent of his employer; if none of these persons is present at the workplace, the worker must take reasonable steps to ensure that one of them is informed as soon as possible.

1979, c. 63, s. 15.

16. On being informed, the supervisor or, as the case may be, the employer or his agent shall convoke the safety representative to examine the matter and the corrective measures he intends to apply.

If there is no safety representative or if he is not available, the safety representative is replaced by a representative of the worker's certified association, if any, and if he is available, or if none is available, by any other worker designated by the worker who refuses to perform his work.

1979, c. 63, s. 16.

17. If the worker maintains his refusal to perform the work when his supervisor or, as the case may be, the employer or his agent and the safety representative or the person replacing him are of opinion that no danger exists to justify the worker's refusal to work or that his refusal to work is based on grounds that are acceptable in the particular case of that worker but do not justify another worker's refusing to perform the work, the employer may, notwithstanding section 14, have the work performed by another worker. That other worker may accept to perform the work after being informed that the right of refusal has been exercised, and of the reasons therefor.

1979, c. 63, s. 17.

18. After the situation has been examined, the intervention of an inspector may be required by

(1) the worker, if he maintains his refusal to perform the work;

(2) the safety representative or the person replacing him if he believes that the performance of the work exposes the worker to danger to his health, safety or physical or mental well-being or exposes another person to similar danger; or

(3) the employer or his agent, if he believes that the performance of the work does not expose the worker to danger to his health, safety or physical or mental well-being or does not expose another person to such danger, or that the corrective measures taken have dissipated the danger.

1979, c. 63, s. 18; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

19. The inspector shall determine immediately whether or not a danger exists that would justify the worker's refusal to work. He may require the worker to resume his work. He may also prescribe temporary measures and require that corrective measures be taken within such time as he may determine.

If, in the inspector's opinion, the refusal to work is based on grounds that are acceptable in the particular case of that worker but do not justify another worker's refusing to perform the work, the employer may, notwithstanding section 14, have the work performed by another worker, who may agree to perform it after being informed of the fact that the right of refusal has been exercised, and of the reasons therefor.

The inspector's decision must be substantiated and recorded in writing. It is transmitted by any appropriate means that provides the inspector with proof that it was delivered to the worker, the safety representative or the person replacing him, and to the employer or his agent.

1979, c. 63, s. 19; I.N. 2016-01-01 (NCCP); 2021, c. 27, s. 126.

20. The inspector's decision may be the object of an application for review and a contestation before the Administrative Labour Tribunal in accordance with sections 191.1 to 193.

The inspector's decision has effect immediately, notwithstanding any application for review.

1979, c. 63, s. 20; 1985, c. 6, s. 522; 1997, c. 27, s. 35; 2015, c. 15, s. 237.

21. (Replaced).

1979, c. 63, s. 21; 1985, c. 6, s. 522.

22. (Replaced).

1979, c. 63, s. 22; 1985, c. 6, s. 522.

23. (Replaced).

1979, c. 63, s. 23; 1985, c. 6, s. 522.

24. A final decision applies as long as the circumstances remain unchanged.

1979, c. 63, s. 24.

25. An employer may require a worker who has exercised his right to refuse to work to remain at the workplace and assign him temporarily to other duties that he is reasonably capable of performing.

1979, c. 63, s. 25.

26. In cases where the exercise of the right to refuse to work prevents at least two other workers from working, the inspector must be present on the premises not later than six hours after his intervention has been required.

If the inspector is not present within the prescribed time, the employer may, notwithstanding section 14, have the work performed by another worker who agrees to do the work after being informed that the right of refusal has been exercised, and of the reasons therefor.

1979, c. 63, s. 26.

27. Where two or more workers refuse to perform particular work by reason of the same danger, their cases are examined jointly and may be the subject of a decision concerning them jointly.

1979, c. 63, s. 27; 2021, c. 27, s. 127.

28. Where the exercise of the right of refusal results in depriving of work other workers in the undertaking, these other workers are deemed to be at work for the duration of the work stoppage.

The employer may, however, assign the other workers to other duties that they are reasonably capable of performing or require that they remain available at the workplace during the whole period thus remunerated.

1979, c. 63, s. 28.

29. The employer must allow the safety representative or, as the case may be, the person replacing him, to exercise the functions vested in him by sections 16, 18, 21 and 23.

The safety representative or the person replacing him is deemed to be working when he is exercising the functions vested in him referred to in this section.

1979, c. 63, s. 29.

30. No employer may dismiss, suspend or transfer a worker, practise discrimination or take reprisals against him or impose any other penalty on him on the ground that the worker exercised the right contemplated in section 12.

However, the employer may, within the 10 days following a final decision, dismiss, suspend or transfer the worker or impose another penalty on him if the worker abused his right.

1979, c. 63, s. 30; 1985, c. 6, s. 523.

31. No employer may dismiss, suspend or transfer a safety representative or the person replacing him, practise discrimination or take reprisals against him or impose any other penalty on him on the ground that the safety representative or person replacing him exercised a function conferred on him by this Act.

However, the employer, within the 10 days following a final decision respecting a worker's exercise of his right of refusal, may dismiss, suspend or transfer the safety representative or person replacing him or impose another penalty on him if the representative or person abused his function.

1979, c. 63, s. 31; 1985, c. 6, s. 523.

§ 3. — Protective re-assignment

32. A worker who furnishes the certificate prescribed by the Commission, which attests that his being exposed to a contaminant entails danger to him, in view of the fact that his health shows signs of deterioration, may request to be re-assigned to duties that do not entail exposure to a contaminant and that he is reasonably capable of performing, until the condition of his health allows him to resume his former duties and his working conditions conform to the standards established by regulation for that contaminant.

1979, c. 63, s. 32; 2021, c. 27, s. 129.

33. The certificate contemplated in section 32 may be issued by a physician in charge of health services in the establishment by another physician or by a specialized nurse practitioner.

If the certificate is issued by the physician in charge of health services in the establishment he must, at the worker's request, notify the physician or specialized nurse practitioner designated by the worker.

If the certificate is issued by another physician or by a specialized nurse practitioner, that professional must, before issuing it, consult with the physician in charge of health services in the establishment or, if there is no physician in charge, with the public health director of the region in which the establishment is situated, or the physician or specialized nurse practitioner designated by him.

1979, c. 63, s. 33; 1992, c. 21, s. 301; 2020, c. 6, s. 21; 2021, c. 27, ss. 130 and 303.

34. The Commission may, by regulation,

- (1) identify the contaminants in relation to which a worker may exercise his right under section 32;
- (2) determine the criteria on which a deterioration of health associated with each contaminant identified under paragraph 1 warrants the exercise of the right under section 32;
- (3) specify the criteria on which a worker may be re-assigned, or be returned to his regular duties;
- (4) (paragraph repealed).

1979, c. 63, s. 34; 2021, c. 27, s. 131.

35. If a requested re-assignment is not made immediately, the worker may stop working until he is re-assigned or his health or working conditions allow him to return to his duties in accordance with section 32.

1979, c. 63, s. 35.

36. A worker is entitled, for the first five working days of his work stoppage, to be remunerated at his regular wage rate and to also receive from his employer, where section 42.11 or 1019.4 of the Taxation Act (chapter I-3) applies to the worker, remuneration equal to the aggregate of the tips that could reasonably be considered to be attributable to those days and that the worker would have reported to his employer under that section 1019.4 or that his employer would have attributed to him under that section 42.11.

At the end of that period, the worker is entitled to the income replacement indemnity to which he would be entitled under the Act respecting industrial accidents and occupational diseases (chapter A-3.001) if he then became unable to carry on his employment by reason of an employment injury within the meaning of that Act.

To decide a case under this section, the Commission shall apply the Act respecting industrial accidents and occupational diseases to the extent that it is consistent with this Act; its decision may be the object of an application for review and contestation before the Administrative Labour Tribunal in accordance with this Act.

1979, c. 63, s. 36; 1985, c. 6, s. 524; 1997, c. 85, s. 412; 1997, c. 27, s. 36; 2015, c. 15, s. 237.

37. If a worker believes he is not reasonably capable of performing duties to which he is re-assigned by the employer, he may request the health and safety committee or, failing such a committee, the health and safety representative and the employer to examine and decide the question in conjunction with a physician in charge of health services in the establishment, or if there is no such physician, the public health director of the region where the establishment is situated.

If there is no safety committee or health and safety representative, the worker may send his request directly to the Commission.

The Commission shall render its decision within 20 days of the request and the decision has effect immediately notwithstanding any application for review.

1979, c. 63, s. 37; 1985, c. 6, s. 525; 1992, c. 21, s. 302; 2021, c. 27, ss. 132 and 303.

37.1. 1979, c. 63, s. 40; 2021, c. 27, s. 133.

40.1. The certificate is issued by the professional providing pregnancy care after he has evaluated, in accordance with protocols developed under section 48.1, that the working conditions of the pregnant worker may be physically dangerous to her unborn child, or to herself by reason of her pregnancy.

If the dangers and the associated working conditions are not identified by a protocol, the professional must, before issuing the certificate, consult with a physician in charge of health services in the establishment or, if there is no such physician, with the public health director of the region in which the establishment is situated, or the person designated by the public health director.

The worker is presumed to be eligible for those benefits from that fourth week.

However, the expected date of delivery may be changed if the Commission is informed by the professional providing pregnancy care of a new expected date of delivery, not later than four weeks before the date stated in the certificate mentioned in the first paragraph.

At the end of the worker’s period of re-assignment or work stoppage, the employer must return her to her regular employment and grant her the benefits she would have been entitled to had she remained in her employment.

The worker continues to receive the social benefits recognized for her workplace subject to payment of the exigible assessments, part of which is assumed by the employer.

1979, c. 63, s. 43.

44. On receiving an application from a pregnant worker, the Commission may make temporary payments if it is of opinion that it will probably grant the indemnity.

If the Commission concludes that the application should not be granted, the amounts paid as temporary payments are not recoverable.

1979, c. 63, s. 46; 2021, c. 27, s. 136.

47. If the requested re-assignment is not made immediately, the worker may stop working until she is re-assigned or the child is weaned.

1979, c. 63, s. 47.

The Commission may order the content of a program amended or a new program transmitted to it within the time it determines. 62.1. Except in the cases provided for by regulation, no employer may allow a hazardous product to be used, handled or stored in a workplace unless the product has a label and a safety data sheet that comply with this subdivision and the regulations under it and unless a worker who is exposed or likely to be exposed to the product has received the training and information required to safely carry out the work entrusted to him.

An employer may, however, store a hazardous product that does not have such a label or safety data sheet in a workplace or allow it to be handled for storage purposes under conditions prescribed by regulation, if he takes, without delay, the steps necessary to ensure that the product has such a label and safety data sheet and if the worker is given, as soon as possible, the training and information regarding handling and storage that is included in the program required under section 62.5.

Despite sections 10 and 11, the training obligation provided for in this section does not apply to the persons described in paragraph 2 of the definition of “worker” in section 1.

An employer must also ensure that the training and information received by a worker, during the periods and in the cases prescribed by regulation, allow the worker to develop the skills required to safely carry out the work entrusted to him.

The training and information program shall be established by the health and safety committee. The procedure set out in section 79 shall apply in cases of disagreement within the committee.

Where there is no health and safety committee, the training and information program shall be established by the employer in consultation with the certified association or, where there is no certified association, with the workers or their representative, as the case may be, within the establishment.

Following a final decision granting an application, the applicant is exempt, for a period of three years, from the obligation to disclose the information forming the object of his application.

1988, c. 61, s. 2.

62.13. The employer, a worker of the establishment, a member of the health and safety committee, a prevention representative, a certified association representing a worker of the establishment or any interested person may, within the period prescribed by regulation, appeal from the decision rendered in respect of an application for exemption.

CHAPTER X

INSPECTION

177. For the purposes of the application of this Act and the regulations, inspectors shall be appointed in accordance with the Public Service Act (chapter F-3.1.1), and they are officers of the Commission.

1979, c. 63, s. 177; 1983, c. 55, s. 161; 1985, c. 6, s. 544; 2000, c. 8, s. 242.

178. Sections 160 and 161 apply to an inspector appointed under section 177.

1979, c. 63, s. 178; 1985, c. 6, s. 544.

179. An inspector, in the performance of his duties, may, at any reasonable hour of the day or night, enter a place where activities are carried on in the fields contemplated in this Act and the regulations, and inspect that place.

An inspector acting under this section has access to all the books, registers and records of any employer, principal contractor, supplier or other person carrying on an activity in the fields contemplated by this Act and the regulations. A person having custody, possession or control of these books, registers or records shall give communication of them to the inspector and facilitate his examination of them.

An inspector shall, on demand, produce a certificate of his office.

1979, c. 63, s. 179; 1986, c. 95, s. 302.

179.1. An inspector may not, without the consent of the worker, enter a place where telework is carried on if that place is situated in a dwelling house, unless the inspector has obtained a court order authorizing such entry.

A judge of the Court of Québec or a presiding justice of the peace having jurisdiction in the locality in which the house is situated may grant the order, on the conditions he determines, if he is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the worker or a person who is in such a place or nearby is exposed to a danger threatening his life, health, safety or physical or mental well-being.

2021, c. 27, s. 211; 2023, c. 3, s. 26.

180. The inspector may, in addition to his general powers,

- (1) investigate any matter within his competence;
- (2) require the employer or principal contractor, whichever is the case, to produce the plan of the installations and of the layout of the equipment;
- (3) take, free of charge, samples of any kind, particularly of objects used by the workers, for analysis; he must then inform the employer and, if possible, return the samples to him after analysis;
- (4) conduct tests and make photographs or recordings at a workplace;
- (5) in order to ensure that a building, a structure or civil engineering works are stable, require the employer, principal contractor or owner to produce an attestation of solidity signed by an engineer or architect, or an attestation contemplated in section 54;
- (6) in such cases as he may determine, instal a measuring device at a workplace, or cause it to be worn by a worker with the worker's written consent, or order the employer to instal it or cause it to be worn at the time and place the inspector indicates, and require the employer to transmit the data on the terms and conditions the inspector determines;
- (7) be accompanied by one or more persons of his choice while performing his duties.

1979, c. 63, s. 180.

181. On arriving at a workplace, and before making an investigation or inspection, an inspector shall take reasonable steps to advise the employer, the certified association and the safety representative. On a construction site, he shall advise the principal contractor, the health and safety coordinator and the health and safety representative.

1979, c. 63, s. 181; 2021, c. 27, s. 304.

182. If he considers it advisable, an inspector may issue a remedial order requiring a person to comply with this Act or the regulations, and fix the time in which he must comply.

1979, c. 63, s. 182.

183. The inspector shall communicate the findings of his investigation or inspection to the employer, the certified association, the representative association within the meaning of the Act respecting labour relations, vocational training and workforce management in the construction industry (chapter R-20) that has affiliated workers present on the construction site, the job-site committee, the health and safety committee, the health and safety coordinator, the principal contractor, the health and safety representative or safety representative, as the case may be, and the public health director; he shall send them a copy of any remedial order. If there is no committee, the employer shall post up copies of the remedial order in a sufficient number of conspicuous places easily accessible to the workers to ensure that they are informed.

1979, c. 63, s. 183; 1992, c. 21, s. 331; 2021, c. 27, ss. 214 and 305.

184. A person to whom an inspector has given a remedial order shall carry it out in the appointed time, and inform the certified association, the health and safety committee, the health and safety representative or safety representative, as the case may be, and the inspector, as soon as possible, of the specific measures the person intends to take.

1979, c. 63, s. 184; 2015, c. 13, s. 11; 2021, c. 27, ss. 233 and 306.

185. No person may hinder an inspector in the performance of his duties, mislead or attempt to mislead him by concealment or false or untruthful statements, refuse to give his name and address to the inspector or neglect to obey an order he may give under this Act or the regulations.

1979, c. 63, s. 185.

186. An inspector may order the suspension of work or the complete or partial shut-down of a workplace and, if necessary, affix seals, if he considers a worker's health, safety or physical or mental well-being to be endangered.

The inspector shall substantiate his decision in writing as soon as possible and indicate the steps to be taken to eliminate the danger.

Section 183 applies, with the necessary modifications, to the inspector's order.

1979, c. 63, s. 186; 2021, c. 27, s. 233.

187. During a suspension of work or a shut-down, the workers are deemed to be at work and therefore entitled to the wages and social benefits related to their work.

1979, c. 63, s. 187.

188. No person may be admitted to a workplace shut down by an inspector except, with his authorization, to do the necessary work to eliminate the danger.

However, the application of the first paragraph cannot prevent an employer, principal contractor or owner from taking such conservation measures as are necessary to avoid the destruction or serious deterioration of the property in the workplace.

1979, c. 63, s. 188; 1999, c. 40, s. 261.

189. Work shall not be resumed nor the workplace reopened until authorized by the inspector.

Section 183 applies, with the necessary modifications, to the inspector's authorization.

1979, c. 63, s. 189.

190. Where a person contravenes this Act or the regulations, an inspector may order him to cease making, supplying, selling, leasing, distributing or installing the product, process, equipment, material, contaminant or dangerous substance concerned, and affix seals or confiscate such objects and order the person to cease every activity that might cause the emission of the contaminant concerned.

The inspector shall substantiate his decision in writing, indicating, where that is the case, the steps to be taken to bring the product, process, equipment, material, contaminant or dangerous substance, or the activity that might cause the emission of the contaminant, into conformity with the Act and the regulations.

The person is prohibited from again making, supplying, selling, leasing, distributing or installing the product, process, equipment, material, contaminant or dangerous substance, or resuming the activity that might cause the emission of a contaminant, until authorized by the inspector.

Section 183 applies, with the necessary modifications, to the inspector's order or authorization.

1979, c. 63, s. 190.

191. An order or decision of an inspector has effect immediately, notwithstanding any application for review.

1979, c. 63, s. 191; 1985, c. 6, s. 545.

191.1. Any person who believes he has been wronged by an order or decision of an inspector may apply for review thereof by the Commission in accordance with sections 358.1 to 358.5 of the Act respecting industrial accidents and occupational diseases (chapter A-3.001) within 10 days of being notified of the decision.

1985, c. 6, s. 545; 1997, c. 27, s. 43.

191.2. Where the review relates to the complete or partial closing of a workplace or to the exercise of the right of refusal, the Commission shall proceed with the review by preference.

1985, c. 6, s. 545; 1997, c. 27, s. 44.

192. A decision made by the Commission following an application under section 191.1 has effect immediately, notwithstanding any contestation before the Administrative Labour Tribunal.

1979, c. 63, s. 192; 1985, c. 6, s. 545; 1997, c. 27, s. 45; 2015, c. 15, s. 237.

193. Any person who believes he has been wronged by a decision made by the Commission following an application under section 191.1, may, within 10 days of being notified of the decision, contest it before the Administrative Labour Tribunal.

Proceedings brought under this section are heard and decided by preference.
